

"Grandmothers Whisper"

Talk, Book Signing, & Chanting

Friday, February 3rd at 5pm

with Author Inette Miller and her husband,
'Iokepa Hanalei 'Imaikalani

Author Inette Miller and her husband 'Iokepa Hanalei 'Imaikalani, a guardian of the aboriginal culture, are traveling to Sarasota from their home on Kaua'i – and will share their remarkable personal story within his ancient, matrilineal culture. For 12,300 years, the indigenous people of the Hawaiian Islands embraced a culture that refused the possibility of war, a fact that is forgotten in modern history. Inette Miller will share her remarkable story of a journey that started when she "went on vacation for a week and stayed a lifetime". After the talk and book signing, we will welcome Iokepa who will share sacred ancient Hawaiian chants and blessings.

"My ancestors are your ancestors," 'Iokepa Hanalei 'Imaikalani says. "The ancient wisdom is universal, and our ability to access it is unlimited. I am not a teacher; I'm only here to remind you of what you already know."
